Dear Colleague(s),

As we start a New Year 2018 and a new semester, I would like to extend a warm welcome back to all our students and teachers and staff members who contribute to making SLC a vibrant center of academic, cultural and co-curricular activities all the year round. A new year always brings in the sense of renewal – a renewal of purpose and collective commitment to excellence in teaching, learning, research and service towards our college and community at large. With this comes the firm resolution to aim higher, achieve more and deliver excellence. I am excited by the many new initiatives and infrastructural developments that we have taken in the recent past for our college and also those that are in the pipeline. All of these are directed towards meeting the holistic education needs of our students and stakeholders and support the further development and advancement of our country. We are actively pursuing opportunities to introduce new programmes such as the MA in various subjects. We have also been channelling our energy and existing resources into developing our Centres of excellence and various national and international events in collaboration with reputed national and international agencies.

We also remain firm in our commitment to build a more sustainable campus. I am pleased that we were able to install solar panels in our college and now we are able to meet all our energy requirements; with rain water harvesting, we are contributing to the global pledge towards water conservation and our green campus is an emblem of our commitment towards building an environmentally sustainable campus.

The year 2017 has been pivotal in realizing our motto "Think Big...Dream Big... Learn to Lead". I am very confident that the New Year 2018 will be another milestone for us and I look forward to working and engaging with all my students, teachers, staff members and other stakeholders in taking SLC to newer heights. And I am sure of your continued cooperation in that direction.

While the past year tested us in many ways, as a Campus, we have remained resilient and we are forging ahead with renewed vigour to achieve our strategic objectives. Wish all of you a very Happy and Prosperous New Year 2018.

Wish all of you a very Happy and Prosperous New Year 2018!
